Harrison fans: White-out at Bourbon County

Harrison County High School Thorobred fans and parents are being asked to “White Out” at the Bourbon County football game on Friday.

Last year, the border war was played in Harrison County with HCHS fans donning maroon. Since this year’s game is in Bourbon County, the home team/fans will be in maroon.

“This is a fun little thing with the rivalry,” said Joe Nichols, HCHS pep coach. “We want to get the community involved.”

Dave Kennedy to be honored

The late Dave Kennedy, who served Cynthiana as an administrative assistance and helped design and spearhead the renovation of the City Hall gym, will be honored posthumously on Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 5 p.m.

A plaque will be placed in the Cynthiana-Harrison County Sports Center with its unveiling next Tuesday.

Trees, tombs, tributes and tales Sept. 20

Local historian Sarah Kinney will present a program at the Battle Grove Cemetery on Friday, Sept. 20, entitled Trees, tombs, tributes and tales.

The program will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and will provide information about one of the area’s historical treasures.

The event is open to all ages. Pre-registration is required by Sept. 20. Call 234-6689 extension 105 or 0 to register.

Victim stabbed getting s’more crackers

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

On a late night run to a Berry woman’s house for graham crackers to make s’mores, a man was allegedly attacked and stabbed with a kitchen knife at 2 a.m. Friday morning. According to the arrest report, the man provoked an argument with another man, an unwelcome visitor in the woman’s home, which escalated into a knife assault and an eventual arrest by the Harrison County Sheriff’s Department. According to the report submitted by Deputy Sheriff Tuan Kreer, Jason Nichols, 31, went to the home of Gloria Russell at 209 N. Second St. in Berry, at her request, to retrieve a box of graham crackers from the kitchen so that they could make s’mores. Russell told Kreer that she did not want to go herself because Timothy Shepperd, 49, was at her home. Apparently, earlier that evening, Russell had agreed to allow Sheppard to stay at her home overnight as a gesture of thanks for paying her $100 water bill. However, she reported that Sheppard began making unwanted sexual advances toward her and she left her house. When Nichols arrived at Russell’s home, he said that he walked into the front door and found Sheppard seated on the couch in the living room. Sheppard confronted Nichols and told him to leave the house. Nichols told Sheppard that Russell did not want him in the house anymore. It was at that point when Nichols claimed Sheppard attacked him with the kitchen knife. Using a screen door as protection, Nichols said he

Hutchison to serve 52 months in pill mill conviction

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Local businessman Richard Hutchison will spend at least 85 percent of a 52-month sentence in a federal prison and will have to pay a $12,500 fine for his role in a Florida-Kentucky pill mill. Once his jail time his served, he’ll have to serve another three years on supervised release.

Hutchison was sentenced in U.S. District Court in Lexington on Monday after changing his plea to guilty on a charge of conspiracy to distribute a quantity of pills containing Oxycodone, a Schedule II controlled substance in June.

Hutchison faced a federal indictment after he sold 50 pills to a confidential informant, working at the direction of the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) and the Kentucky State Police (KSP).

Hutchison was arrested in February. In June, Hutchison entered into a plea agreement where he admitted to selling the Oxycodone pills, known as Perc 30s.

According to court documents, Hutchison provided investigators with names of those involved with him in the distribution of drugs.

Hutchison acknowledged to the court that he was responsible for conspiring to distribute 679 Oxycodone, 300 milligram pills, which is a marijuana equivalency of 136.47 kilograms.

Hutchison told federal law enforcement officials that he paid his brother, Oscar, for Oxycodone that Oscar received through a prescription from Florida. Hutchison also admitted to obtaining Oxycodone pills from other individuals in the central Kentucky area.

Cynthiana son returns as new postmaster

8-year-old Marx knew what he wanted to be

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

For the first time in decades a local man has assumed the reins at the Cynthiana Post Office.

Boyd Marx, 58, was named postmaster earlier this month with his first day at his dream position being Sept. 7.

Marx said Monday that he knew when he was 8 years old that he wanted to be postmaster in his hometown. It was then that the late Larkie Box gave him a tour of the Walnut Street post office, where Whalen and Co. offices are now located.

Marx graduated from Harrison County High School in 1974 and went straight into the Navy where he spent the next six years rounding out his career as a 2nd Class Petty Officer.

He graduated from the University of Kentucky as a communications major.

His first position with the U.S. Postal Service was in Lexington with the Central Forward Services. He has also been a delivery supervisor in Lexington and Georgetown. He was also a mail carrier in Georgetown, where he has worked for the last 20 years, 14 of which were as a delivery supervisor.

Marx said it was perseverance that finally landed him a position in his hometown. He interviewed for postmaster four times before being appointed.

“There’s such a big difference between Georgetown and Cynthiana,” Marx said, noting that Georgetown has 27 routes compared to Cynthiana’s 12.

“This is a good bunch of people,” Marx said. “It’s good to be back in my hometown. The employees are so dedicated to serve the community I love ... we all love.”

Marx and his son Alex live on U.S. 62 West. Alex is a graduate of HCHS and attends classes at Maysville Community and Technical College/Licking Valley Campus.

Marx is the son of the late Vivian Terry Garnett and Boyd Marx Jr. He also has a brother, Bill, who lives in Virginia.

“I plan to be here awhile,” Marx said. “I’m a lucky man.”

City faces nearly $4 million water improvements to meet EPA demands

By BECKY BARNES, Editor
The Cynthiana city Commission could be looking at a nearly $4 million investment in its water treatment facility to bring water quality up to state environmental requirements. That could also mean rate increases for Cynthiana water customers.
The requirements are Stage 2 of the disinfectants and disinfection by-product rule, which is designed to reduce health risks association with HAAs and TTHMs in drinking water. HAAs and TTHMs are by-products of introducing chlorine into natural organic matter in water.
“We’re asking for a form of advanced treatment process,” said Gary Royalty, director of public works/utities, at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Todd Blanton, water plant supervisor, noted that the 1965 plant and its method of treating water is limited.
Blanton said new requirements for monitoring will begin in October.
Commissioner Gary Brunker asked how long it was known that the Stage 2 requirements would be taking effect.
Blanton said that for three years officials knew the changes were ahead. However, he and Royalty noted that they believed that all of the recent upgrades at the plant would handle the new regulations.
“We thought we had an outside chance of meeting the requirements without a capital investment for enhanced treatment,” Royalty said.

However, where past testing was done quarterly and could be an average of the city’s testing sights, new regulations will require a specific week each quarter with each sight standing on its own results.
“The biggest tragedy should the city fail will be the lost of trust with our customers,” Blanton said. “They have put their trust in us and we’ve had no violation in water quality since 2008.”
When questioned by Brunker about the health risks, Blanton explained that the recommended daily water consumption is two liters. It’s estimated that over 75 years, at two liters per day, there is a chance of developing cancer from the disinfectant by-products.

“We’ve done everything we know how to do,” Royalty added, noting that there will also be Stage 3 requirements to follow.
“This is not something you’re facing by yourself,” said Brent Tippy, an engineer with HDR Engineers.
One of HDR’s recommendations would require an estimated $3,956,656 construction of a Granular Activated Carbon and UV facility in the area of the existing water plant.
Tippy told commissioners that EPA’s drive was to ensure equity in the quality of water going to consumers.

He said that if the city plans to move ahead with the proposed construction, it can apply for a two-year extension on new monitoring criteria.
Bob Sturdevant, HDR engineer, explained possible funding opportunities for the city and how that would translate into rate increases for city water customers.
Sturdevant gave three options, the first being a 100 percent loan through KIA for 20 years. That would require a 16 to 17 percent increase in water rates. To the average customer who pays $16.09 for 4,000 gallons, the 16 percent increase would amount to 66 cents per 1,000 gallons or an additional $2.64.
Another option would be to seek Rural Development funding through a 75 percent RD/25 percent city (through loan) for 38 years. The third option would be the same 25/75 through Rural Development but would be for a 20-year agreement.

Sturdevant noted that the window of opportunity for applying for a KIA grant is within the next month. He explained that even if the city applies, it does not have to accept if it is awarded, but applying gets Cynthiana in line with no obligation.
“We have to come to a decision very quickly,” Royalty said. “Every small town is going to be faced with this same problem.”
The commission took no action.

Stabbing

tried to defend himself but was trapped against the front door. He suffered a laceration to his wrist.
Outside, Donald Dean Kiskaden, who was checking up on Nichols, reported that he heard the sounds of the fight, opened the front door and helped Nichols escape. They called the sheriff’s office from 211 N. First St. to report the incident.
Responding to the call, Kreer observed a deep gash in Nichols’ wrist and took down statements from Nichols, Russell and Kiskaden. Kreer then went to Russell’s home where he found Shepperd on the couch in the front room with a baseball bat beside him, the report said.

Kreer asked Shepperd to join him on the front porch and proceeded to inform Shepperd of his rights.
Through a text message on a cell phone, Shepperd confirmed that Russell had agreed to let him spend the night in her home. Kreer also noted that Shepperd had a black eye from the fight.

Shepperd presented the deputy with the knife that was used in the assault. The knife, Kreer noted, had signs of skin and blood on the blade and collected it as evidence.
Kreer took Shepperd into custody on assault charges. Nichols was transported to the University of Kentucky Medical Center for treatment of a severed tendon in his wrist.

Parks and Rec put hold on hiring deputy director to cut budget

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

Concerns about going over budget has prompted the Cynthiana-Harrison County Parks and Recreation department to postpone hiring a new deputy director until February.
Tuesday’s special called meeting was intended to address lingering questions about how to manage the job descriptions of the seasonal, part time, and full time Parks and Recreation employees. The agenda also included a discussion on the procedure to hire a new deputy director in the wake of Jim Milam’s recent resignation of the post.
Before the department could address that question, though, department director Darrell Baxter advised members to consider postponing a hire. Baxter is trying to put a cap on going over budget by an estimated $15,000.

“If we can hold off hiring a deputy director, we can save around $9,000 in wages. We still have to look at some other means to cut costs but that would be a big help,” Baxter said.
When asked if he could handle the job demands over the winter, Baxter said that he could. But, he added that a deputy director would be needed before the spring.
Prior to the board’s decision to postpone the hiring, Baxter said that he had received applications from three county employees. He said he would encourage all three to re-apply when the job opened up again.
Before discussion of the deputy director’s position, the board heard a report from Frank Henson about his meeting with a representative from the Department of Wage and Labor in Frankfort concerning their job description for the director’s position.

This information, which will inform job descriptions at the department going forward, largely concerned the difference between a supervisory position and an administrative position.
He also said that the definition of “part-time” can be set by the hiring party. However, according to the Affordable Care Act, health insurance would have to be provided to part-time employees that work 30 hours or more.
The board also discussed other means to generate revenue through added concessions at various Parks and Recreation venues.

Benefit to be held Sept. 28 for Blue Grass Energy lineman

To the editor:

On Sept. 28, a benefit will be held to raise money for Larry Lovelace. Larry is a lineman at Blue Grass Energy and has been diagnosed with diffuse large B-cell lymphoma. He has been off of work since November 2012.

He has undergone numerous treatments at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Cancer Treatment Center at Tulsa, Okla., and is currently under care at Jewish Hospital in Cincinnati. Larry is well known in this community. He and his wife Amanda have a 6-year-old son Ian. They live on Stratton Pike in the Robinson community. Ian is a student at Northside Elementary.

Several individuals are working to organize this benefit in order to help Larry and Amanda with the financial situations that have accrued through the course of his illness.

I would like to encourage everyone to attend the Larry Lovelace Benefit on Saturday, Sept. 28. The benefit will be held at the Flat Run Veterans' Park on Oddville Avenue from 5-10 p.m.

The event will include charity bingo, a live charity auction, food and drinks. There will also be inflatables, face and hair painting for the children. Local favorite Jo Jo Gunn will highlight the evening with a great concert. Another highlight throughout the evening will be the Dunk-A-Lineman booth...visit the booth and pay a few dollars to see your favorite lineman take a swim.

Gate admission is $3 per person or $15 per car load of four persons or more.

Please watch the We Fight For Larry Facebook page for previews of items that will be included in the auction during the benefit and for other updates on Larry and the benefit.

For more information or to make a donation or to see how you can help the night of the benefit, contact Cayce Collins, 859-954-0979; Kathy Livingood, 859-588-1462; Kelly Watkins, 859-588-3566.

Thanks to our community and the surrounding communities for the gracious support as we have solicited donations for this worthy cause.

Dr. Stephens had love, compassion for community

To the editor:

The family of Dr. Don Stephens would like to express our gratitude for the many condolences expressed and kindnesses extended to us in the wake of his passing. This outpouring of support is truly a testament to his love of and devotion to this community and to his many patients in Harrison County and surrounding counties.

We have read the numerous sympathy cards sent to us, as well as the electronic guest book registers associated with his obituary, and have been touched by the many personal stories contained therein of his care and compassion for others during a medical career that spanned more than half a century. We too, like many of you, have little or no experience with personal medical issues in which he was not directly involved; consequently, we have all been spoiled in that regard ... and only in the best of ways.

Although he would likely take no credit himself in the following sentiment, we believe our community and all those he touched, are much the better for him having been here as long as we were fortunate enough to have had him. We also believe he would want us, and all of you, to proceed without heavy hearts, as we will endeavor to do.

THE KEYS TO THE 1844 FIRST METHODIST CHURCH - Above are the original keys to the First Methodist Church in Cynthiana, Kentucky located on Hinkston's Addition.

How our spirit got CIVILIZED

In just over a week from now, on Sunday, Sept. 29, the First United Methodist Church in Cynthiana is going

Josh
Shepherd
News Writer

to celebrate its 195th anniversary. In five years, of course, the church will be celebrating its bicentennial, a major milestone for any church to celebrate.

Earlier this week, I interviewed Bro. Mike Coppersmith and former Cynthiana Mayor Virgie Wells, who serves as the church historian, about the church's history and to find out how the congregation planned to celebrate this event. It will be a feature story for next week, so be looking for it.

However, in the boxes of yellowing documents that Ms. Wells brought to Bro. Coppersmith's office, some of them very fragile, we found several draft copies of George Slade's "History of the First Methodist Church, Cynthiana, Kentucky."

There were many details in this document that I found intriguing. But the thing that struck me most was the mention of the Methodist Conference meeting in 1803 which "met at Mount Gerizim in the Harrison County community of East Broadwell, three miles from Cynthiana on the Ruddles Mills Road. This was the scene of many early camp meetings, which were practical affairs since there were few meeting houses."

By no means do I claim to be a student of church history, but since moving to this area of central Kentucky over 20 years ago, and being reminded frequently of the Cane Ridge Shrine in Bourbon County, I have been fascinated by old-time camp-meeting worship.

A big reason why will take some brief explanation, so bear with me.

When I was growing up in Carroll County, the entire breadth of my church-going experience was as a member of the Carrollton United Methodist Church. Like so many of the other established churches in town, Carrollton UMC was very traditional, very middle class and ... very civilized.

For example, I recall times when members would present special music and the congregation did not clap at the end. The service was quite routine, followed a specific trajectory, and frequently ended about 10 minutes before the Baptist church next door, thus ensuring we were first in line at the breakfast buffet at General Butler State Park.

The church has loosened up considerably from when I grew up there, thank goodness, but being raised in this environment from the time I was an infant, I never thought the lack of applause, the lack of much noise at all, really, was strange. Being quietly polite and reserved was how respectable families acted in established town churches.

And I never knew any different until a friend of mine invited me to a revival at the local Pentecostal church. His church occupied space at an old hardware store that had gone bankrupt years ago.

My father, a wise man, said nothing to prepare me for the experience, which was as contrary to my religious upbringing as it was possible to be. Where we had a solemn pipe organ and hymns, they had a stratocaster, bass and a full drum set. The congregation thought nothing of dancing in the aisles, clapping, and giving vent to a full physical expression of their spirituality.

When I returned home, a bit shell-shocked and with a bookload of questions, my father told me about Cane Ridge and how worship at the old camp meetings was as much a part of the heart as it was of the mind.

I still did not come to appreciate that level of spirituality until I began singing with different gospel groups in the local area.

There is a marked contrast between performing for an audience in a town church and going out into the countryside to a small community church where there are fewer notions of "proper" behavior in a church sanctuary.

Having a performer's mindset as a gospel singer, it is gratifying to sing before a congregation that is unafraid to express itself emotionally when they are moved by the spirit. And it causes me to wonder about the spirit that once moved these camp meetings when our various Christian denominations were young and new.

Reading over the history of the First Methodist Church, one of the first, incidentally, to establish itself in Kentucky, it fires my imagination to think of the enthusiasm that brought people together and organize themselves into a body for the purposes of worship.

Having been raised at a time when many established denominations have undergone the same sort of "civilizing" process that all our towns and cities developed from the 1800s to now, I don't think it's possible for me to ever approach the same sort of joy of discovery that our ancestors in these camp meetings experienced. But for those who profess the Christian faith, I think it is important to appreciate, and celebrate, those roots ... maybe by just shaking my booty in the pew a little bit.

Techau family celebrates 34 years, three generations in grocery business

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

For the last 34 years, the Techau family has owned and operated the full-service grocery with a country store charm.

The Techau family came to Harrison County in 1979 after Ken and Sanna bought what is now known as Ken's NewMarket from Lee Sparks.

Now into its third generation under Techau management, family members say there have been more changes than just who is managing the store.

"Competition has change dramatically," said Joel Techau, CEO, who has been involved in the business full time since 1982. "Everybody is selling groceries now; club stores, drug stores, department stores."

Ken Techau said he decided to move his family from Dayton, Ohio, to Kentucky after being with SuperValue in Xenia for 25 years. He was president of the division when he purchased the Cynthiana and Paris SuperValue affiliates.

Ken retired 10 years ago, handing the business to three of the sons, Joel, Josh, who is president and has been involved since 1984, and Neal, vice president, who has been with the company since 1988.

The business has grown to include a third store in Flemingsburg, three Save-a-Lot stores (Cynthiana, Flemingsburg and Cincinnati), as well as two gas stations (Cynthiana and Paris).

Joel said that since the family moved here in 1979, Cynthiana was the single longest place his parents ever lived.

Jason and Neal are both Harrison County High School graduates. Joel was already a freshman in college when the family moved to Cynthiana.

Josh said he started as a grocery carry-out/bagger and most of the family worked at the store at some point.

In addition to the three sons who are with the business now, a third generation Techau is serving as store manager.

Justin, who is Josh's son, began working at Ken's in 2008.

Other second generation siblings are living out of state. Sister, Susan Burdock and her husband Mike have a toy store in Tulsa, Okla.; Kendall, who worked with Ken's for 15 years, and Mary Techau live in Waukon, Iowa; and David Techau is an architect in Australia.

Ken Techau will celebrate his 87th birthday in March. He now has 13 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

20 authors set to headline Writers' Conference

In connection with the annual Writer's Conference, there will be nearly 20 authors at a Book Signing event at the Prizing House on Friday evening, Sept. 27.

The free public book signing will be from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The public is welcome and urged to stop by for a few minutes. A gathering of authors like this is a rare event for a town the size of Cynthiana.

Some of the authors who will be in attendance at the book signing are Gurney Norman, Eric James, Cynthia Ellingsen, Bob Johnson and Julie Hensley (Bluegrass Writers Studio) George Ella Lyon, Georgia Green Stamper, Ann H. Gabhart, Jan Watson, Lalie Dick, Steve Flairty, Debbie Cooper, Terry Cummins, Kenn Grimes, John Sparks, Leatha Kendrick, Matthew Haughton, Five Points represented by Bud Blanton and D. A. Lawson.

Following the book signing, the 2013 Writing Contest Awards will be given at the gala dinner at The Prizing House. Neil Chethik, director of the Carnegie Center, will give the keynote address.

The cost for the gala dinner is $25. Dinner tickets must be reserved and paid for by 4:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 27. Contact Trina Shields for the gala dinner at 859-234-8626 extension 66400.

Classes will be offered Friday and Saturday for the conference. The fee for the conference is $125. This includes the dinner and two meals Saturday.

For more information about the conference contact Kristy Horine at 859-234-8626 extension 66431 or ecoc0045@kctcs.edu.

CLARIFICATION

In last week's story on the parks and recreation committee meeting, it was erroneously reported that Darrell Baxter would be paid hourly rather than salaried as Parks and Recreation director. Baxter will be paid a $40,000 annual salary for a regular 40-hour week. Hours that he works in excess of a 40 hours can be balanced out as comp time on another work day.

Clinic Pharmacy celebrates 15th anniversary

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

Larry Wiley, R.Ph., has watched the pharmacy business change a lot over the course of his 35-year career and most changes have been a huge benefit to the consumer.

When he started working, he said that the vast majority of people paid cash for their medicines and only a small percentage had an insurance co-pay.

"These days, it's just the opposite. Everyone has the same co-pay," Wiley said.

In other words, there is very little difference in the price of medicine no matter if a person gets their prescription from one of the giant chain stores or the independent Clinic Pharmacy that Larry and Pat Wiley have operated for the last 15 years.

The only way that pharmacies compete these days is in the quality of their service, Wiley said. Celebrating its 15th anniversary, the key behind the Clinic Pharmacy's longevity is its quality service, he said.

Born and raised in Cynthiana, Wiley earned his advanced degree as a pharmacist from Samford University in Alabama. But there was no question in his mind about where he would practice. He was going to return home.

"I got into retail pharmacy because I like having a connection with the public," Wiley said. He has been in the retail end of the business since opening his first drug store in 1979.

Twenty years later, when the medical building was being constructed at Harrison Memorial Hospital, Wiley took a risk and invested in space to open a new pharmacy.

He was, in effect, starting over again and saddled himself with all the risks of starting another independent pharmacy at a time when giants like Walmart, Rite-Aid, Kroger, and Walgreen's dominated the market.

Though the location adjacent to many of the local physician offices may have presented a strategic advantage, the investment was still a risk.

Those who have worked with Wiley can testify that he is one business owner not afraid to embrace change. In fact, according to Pharmacy Technician Amber Hutchison, one of the hallmarks of the Clinic Pharmacy is its willingness to embrace new technology.

"A lot of times, we have been the first to implement new technology into our services," Hutchison said. "We made the investment in electronic prescriptions almost from the moment it was introduced. We have kept up with improvements to insure that our customers' information is secure."

It is an unusual trait for a professional who has been in business for 35 years, but Wiley has always been willing to try new things, Hutchison said.

"With our online and electronic services, people no longer have to sit and wait for the prescriptions to be filled. Unless they want to visit. We always like people to visit with us at the store. But with the computer, we receive the script directly from the doctor's office. Our policy is to call customers directly if they have not picked up their prescription 30 minutes after we've filled it," Wiley said.

The pharmacy also makes use of QR readers so that patients can order a re-fill of their prescription just by taking a smart phone snapshot of the QR code on their medicine bottles and sending a text message of the image to the Clinic Pharmacy.

For customers over 60, nursing home and assisted living residents, there is free delivery.

But just filling prescriptions and marketing medical supplies, such as custom fit diabetic shoes, are not the only ways in which Wiley has served his home community.

He has taken a keen interest in encouraging Harrison County's young people to pursue a career in the health sciences.

Laura Espinola, who earned her doctoral degree (Pharm. D.) in the pharmaceutical sciences, was a former Clinic Pharmacy employee. Another former employee, Chelsea Wagner, went on to earn her degree as a registered nurse.

The 15-year celebration at the Clinic

Pharmacy will be a low key affair, much in keeping with the Wileys' personalities.

There is an opportunity for new customers to win a $50 gas card and for existing customers to win a $100 gas card just by ordering a prescription. Those interested should contact the Clinic Pharmacy for details.

For 35 years, quality service has been Larry Wiley's first concern as a hometown pharmacist. Please join them in celebrating 15 years of service while they look forward to the changes that await local pharmacies in the future.

Former Cynthiana author releases debut thriller

VIP Ink Publishing, LLC, recently signed suspense thriller author Sarah McClain.

McClain began writing stories and poems at a young age; each character or rhyme was hers to bend or manipulate. McClain's possesses a gift of writing enthralling suspense novels with delightfully twisted plots.

Her first novel, "For Ransom," is available at her family's Radio Shack in Cynthiana as well as being sold from VIP Ink Publishing, bookstores, or from an online retailer.

"For Ransom" is character gripping, bitter-sweet and touching; it's suspenseful plot leaves reader wanting more.

Here's a brief glimpse into the mind of Sarah McClain and her new novel, "For Ransom."

Hailey always finds herself in the London spotlight, due to her father's political status. Her father, Jack, has been a prominent member of the political circle since Hailey was a little girl. Parties, debates, fundraisers, events and money seem to sum up the family.

Jack and her mother, Anne, don't speak much anymore. Jack focuses on money and work and power over his family. Love once lived in their house. Hailey remembers laughter and smiles, but those have been replaced with tears and avoiding looks.

At only 18, Hailey's been through more than your average teenager; numerous threats on her life, the death of her best friend, a family that no longer seems to be whole, constantly looking over her shoulder, and a security team following her around everywhere. However, with political power, comes personal danger and a security team was necessary. Eli has been head of the security team for some time now. His devotion for the family has grown deeper since he fell in love with Hailey. Her feelings were mutual, but both keep their love a secret for fear of Jack and his reaction. And now, to top it off, Hailey's been kidnapped!

Bonnie Teater offered the blessing of the food. The luncheon was prepared and served by Layne Tussey, caterer. After the luncheon, Teater presented the spiritual values. She read an inspirational poem entitled Day by Day written by Jeanette Land.

Teater also introduced the musical guest Jane Stritesky. Stritesky plays the French Horn. Stritesky taught music in the Scott County School System and is now retired. She is a member of the Central Kentucky Concert Band.

Cheryl Case was in charge of the monthly program. She introduced three members from the Harrison County High School Speech team. They were Erin Bradford, Ross Smith and Jacob Sanders. Bradford presented a Public

Speaking Declamation of David McCullough’s June 2012 commencement speech. Smith gave a limited Preparation Events speech entitled The History of Toilets. Sanders presented a Poetry Interpretation performance during which he alternated between several different characters. The students presentations were highly entertaining and very impressive. The Woman’s Club was delighted to have these talented young people join us. Smith is the son of Ed and Betsy Smith, Bradford is the daughter of Kent and Marybeth Bradford, and Sanders is the son of Jay and Laura Sanders.

Following the program, the club held its monthly business meeting. Kaye McCauley read the minutes from the June 14 meeting and the June 28 Executive Committee meeting. Virgie Wells presented the treasury report and also read a letter of thanks from Ann Cox, Director of Hospice of the Bluegrass in Cynthiana, for the Woman’s Club contribution given in memory of Edna Lang.

The Woman’s Club will meet Oct. 13 at Hospice of The Bluegrass.

The sounds of starlings usher in fall

The other evening I was sitting outside under a tree babysitting our hens.

We have only been letting them out in the evening under supervision until we can get a handle on some fox problems (we are working on it!).

As I sat and read, a sense of calm came over me and I was surprised to realize that it was triggered by a little flock of nasty starlings.

Starlings start to flock up this time of the year and I guess there was just some sort of Pavlovian response that said, yes, fall is just around the corner, the starlings say so.

The surprising thing about starlings is that they are everywhere yet not from here. It's another story of one good intention going bad.

Apparently back in 1890, in honor of a Shakespeare festival in New York City's Central Park, 60 European starlings were released.

The following year another 40 were released and today the bird is one of the most numerous species in North America.

Most species that adapt to city life seem to do well in North America.

The Starlings settled in and started raising their families under the eaves of the

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist

SwallowRailFarm.com

American History Museum; then they spread from town to town dropping down in flocks to feed on grubs in our suburban lawns.

They made it from Central Park to Southern California in about 70 years.

Have you really ever looked closely at a starling? They are quite pretty, almost like an iridescent fiber-optic decoration, this is their summer costume.

This time of the year, however, they are a bit dull but still interesting enough. They grow new white-tipped feathers in the fall which make them look spotted.

It's funny, really, what qualities help to define a bird as a nuisance.

One, alone, could be appreciated but they never arrive alone.

These highly social birds usually flock in the hundreds. That's why they get bad press.

I hate when they land in the side yard or on the roof

(where we collect our water) because of some sort of perceived threat that comes with numbers and the poop they leave behind.

Images of Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds" flash in my head.

The reality is that starlings predominately eat insects and soft fruit so they could be considered beneficial if they eat Japanese beetle grubs from the lawn, right?

They are good at aerating our lawns as they push their beaks into the ground to expose their meal, right?

On the other hand, they can strip a cherry orchard in one sitting, or poop all over the drive way, or make you nervous with all their chattering.

Starlings are relatives of the myna bird known for its ability to imitate other birds and humans.

Mynas can be taught to talk, even. Starlings mostly chatter among themselves during the day as they move in flocks and at night when they roost in trees.

Their roosting sites en masse can make for some seriously messy morning-afters. This is the No. 1 reason why we do not have any bamboo at the farm because large clusters of bamboo are a favorite starling roost.

At last count, participants in the Great Backyard Bird Count have counted on average about 14,000 starlings in Indiana; and over 12,000 in Kentucky. It is estimated that there are 200 million across the North American continent.

By December, the starlings will really be flocking; it has only just begun so I suppose we should enjoy their soft chatter before the winter masses become a cacophony of pooping birds.

EDA looking for $300k loan to fund welding academy

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

If the Harrison County Economic Development Authority (EDA) can make its case, there is over $300,000 in development loan funds that could finance the bulk of new construction for the proposed welding/technical school, reported Chairman Frazer LeBus at the regular meeting of the EDA last Thursday.

According to Charleen McIlvain, Cynthiana City Clerk who was invited to the meeting as a special guest, there are two existing sources of funds currently held by the City of Cynthiana that the authority could apply for and use toward the new development project.

The two funds are an Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG), which has an estimated $123,000 of available money, and a Revolving Loan Grant, which could add another $204,000.

Combined with a reported commitment from the Harrison County Fiscal Court, LeBus said that these three sources could take the EDA “way over the hump” in terms of the new Welding Academy’s building costs.

Both funding sources are intended to be used for development projects, but, LeBus said, it’s not a simple matter of just asking for these funds to be released. There is an application and state approval process to be followed

To explain this process, LeBus turned the floor over to another special guest, Craig McAnelly, director of the Industrial and Business Development branch of the Bluegrass Area Development District.

With regard to UDAG funds, McAnelly said this grant dates back to 1989 and he is not sure what regulations currently apply to this fund.

“There have been three different sets of regulations governing UDAGs since ‘89. It is very old and I’m unclear what rules now govern this grant,” McAnelly said.

He said that, in principle, the UDAG is designed to operate in the same manner as the revolving loan grant. But with so much intervening time since the UDAGs were first started, he said it is possible that the money in the grant could be “dead-ended without having to be re-captured.”

He would do some research into UDAGs and provide some guidance later regarding that grant.

The revolving loan grant, on the other hand, is a bit easier to explain because McAnelly helped write the grant in 1996. The City of Cynthiana is holder of the revolving loan grant, but the money is earmarked for EDA development projects, pending state approval, McAnelly explained.

For the EDA to get access to that money, the authority would need to submit a plan that outlines in detail how the money will be used and revenues would be generated to return the loan.

“You don’t pay interest on a revolving loan, but this pot of money exists to be loaned and repaid in short order so that it can finance other projects,” McAnelly said.

Following McAnelly’s remarks, LeBus requested that the BGADD provide assistance to help move the project forward.

A location for the building has been identified in the business park, LeBus said. The EDA has also secured the support of the Harrison County Vocational School and Maysville Community and Technical College, Licking Valley Center.

A question was brought up about the reason for new construction rather than renovation of an existing structure in the business park that is currently unused.

One key reason to build new is to ensure that the building adheres to the strict codes that govern educational buildings, Diane Gordon, principal of the Harrison Vocational School said.

“Buildings designed to train students in vocational skills are required to meet a lot of safety codes and standards. It would cost more to renovate an old building to meet those standards. There are also regulations that do not permit students to work or train in the same place where adult professionals work,” Gordon said.

Adding to Gordon’s comments, Bruce Florence, director of the Licking Valley Campus of Maysville Community and Technical College, said that new building construction will also enhance the initial success of this project.

“People like new things. When we built the new Licking Valley campus building, our enrollment nearly doubled. It was just the fact of a new building that brought hundreds of new students to our campus,” Florence said.

She also stressed that training in welding will only be one aspect of the classes offered at this new technical training facility.

“We [MCTCS] have identified an increasing need for industrial maintenance professionals in the area. Local industries are hiring professionals to maintain their complicated manufacturing equipment. We are developing courses to meet that need. That is another reason that this new building is needed,” she continued.

Adding one more argument for new construction, LeBus said that a new building that meets all current codes for new industry is an asset to the business park.

In other EDA business:

- LeBus reported that the EDA has recovered most of the contacts and documents that former executive director Darlene Bussell either deleted or destroyed. However, the EDA did lose its office in the back of City Hall.
- The EDA is redeveloping its website.
- The authority is working with Harrison County Planning and Zoning to place the business park in a “zoning overlay status,” LeBus said.
- The authority is undergoing its bi-annual audit. Jim Cowley, auditor for Judy Construction, together with an auditing firm, are completing the work.
- The EDA plans to assemble a three-person committee to develop the parameters of a job description before advertising for a new EDA executive director.

The secret is in the dirt

Nancy Kennedy
Columnist

GRACE NOTES

What I know about growing plants can fill a thimble.

So, it's no surprise to me that the cute little yellow flowering things I plopped in the dirt under my little something-or-other tree out front aren't doing well.

Even the tree, half-leafy and half-not, looks like it needs something, but I don't know what. Our neighbors all have lovely gardenesque areas under their trees and elsewhere. I'm thinking they know a secret.

I hadn't even wanted to plant anything, but because what people think governs a lot of what motivates me, I decided it was time to be like the neighbors and grow something other than lizards and weeds in the under-tree area.

At the nursery, the nice, helpful salesperson asked what I was looking for.

"Plants," I said. "Can you narrow that down?" he asked.

"Plants that I don't have to care for."

He showed me some junipers, whatever they are, and some yellow and reddish-orange flowery succulent things that he said thrive in the hot sun. He added that the daily afternoon Florida rain is water enough.

How perfect is that?

I plunked down my money and later plopped them into the holes I dug under the tree, poured out a couple bags of mulch to make it look like I knew what I was doing and figured that was that.

The flowery things immediately lost their flowers, but then they came back within a day or two. This repeated itself for a few months, which suited me just fine.

But they've been looking a bit sickly lately and not rebounding like they were. I'm thinking about planting fake flowers. The maintenance involved in growing stuff is not my thing. Maybe I have bad dirt. I don't know.

Last week at church, the sermon was one of Jesus' famous parables about dirt and sowing seeds and how some dirt allows plants to grow and other dirt doesn't. The dirt represents our hearts, and the seed is the gospel message. The point is: If we want good plants (a fruitful life) we need good dirt.

The pastor said most people read the parable and think, "I better go home and fix my dirt." They think that having good dirt is a matter of morality, doing religious things and trying hard to be holy and that good dirt looks good on the outside.

But the pastor said that's not it. He said good dirt is that which is broken and tilled, and as hearts go, a "good" heart is one that knows its need for God. He said that only God can change the condition of our hearts, but that we can go to him and ask him to make our dirt good for the sowing of the gospel message. We can't make our own dirt good by trying.

I'd never heard that parable told that way before.

Even before hearing that sermon, and even before my flowering yellow things started looking scraggly -- there's some healthy-ish undergrowth, so maybe the witheringness is part of the growing cycle? -- I had already been thinking about dirt.

Actually, I had been thinking about some deep stuff in my life that I can never write about, not because I don't want to, but because it involves other people's feelings. You just can't blab everything.

Ironically, the things you can't blab are usually the very things that are at the core of your being, the stuff that keeps you awake at night and on your knees in the daytime. But when it involves other people... you just can't blab it, and as a writer, it's frustrating to be so confined.

So, I tell a lot of my core stuff to the one I call my uncle-dad. He says that the stuff that can't be made public is the good dirt that God uses to grow beautiful flowers.

That doesn't help much when it comes to my pitiful-looking flowery yellow things under my tree, but it helps with the other stuff. It helps with understanding and even appreciating the dirt a little better -- that God himself has broken it up and tilled it with great care.

Besides, when people look at a garden, they look at whatever's growing, not the dirt. But the dirt -- how vital and precious is that broken dirt.

Maybe that's the secret.

Thorobreds fall to Royals Friday in a disappointing outing

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

“I thought that we were farther along than this,” said a visibly disappointed Harrison County Football Coach Jim Carr. “They ran all over us.”

Carr’s remarks came after the 41-19 loss to Mason County Friday night in the Athletic Complex before a really good Homecoming crowd that saw Caylin Mattox and Jacob Markley crowned queen and king.

“I am very disappointed in the fact that we are not mentally and physically tougher,” he went on to say. “We (the coaches) are going to have to find a way to improve on this.”

For the second straight week, the Thorobreds were unable to contain the opposition’s running game as the Royals ran for 338 yards and passed for 194 more for the ball game with a score in every quarter.

Tee King scored on a 72-yard pass play from Jake O’Mara on the first play from scrimmage on the Royals third possession.

The Royals missed a field goal attempt on their second time with the ball after a 10-play drive brought nothing on the first try.

The Thorobreds struggled throughout the first half on offense as they picked up only two first downs in the first quarter and four in the second.

The closest Harrison County came to scoring in the first half was a missed 27-yard field goal with 2:27 to play in the half.

Mason County scored its second touchdown the series before on a 7-yard run by RaShon Nelson and the ensuing extra point by Jacob Tompkins to make the score 14-0 before the Thorobreds put together the drive that ended with the failed field goal attempt.

The first half ended with the score 14-0 in favor of the Royals.

The third quarter was the Breds best although it started badly with an 11-play, 95-yard scoring drive by the Royals. Ryan Johnson caught a 25-yard pass from O’Mara and with Tompkins’ point-after made the score 21-0 with seven minutes left in the quarter.

The Thorobreds took the kickoff and put together a drive of their own, an eight-play, 80-yard drive, which ended with a touchdown pass of 11 yards to Jovon Williams from Robbie Stroub.

Taylor Bolin’s kick was good and the Breds had reduced the lead to 21-7 with almost five minutes still to play in the third period.

Harrison County’s defense stiffened and Mason County was forced to punt after three plays.

Again the Thorobreds drove the ball down the field eight plays but Stroub’s pass to Justin Hunter did not connect from the Royal’s four-yard line and the Thorobreds had to give the ball up on downs.

This seemed to dampen the Breds’ spirits as the Royals proceeded to march from the four all the way to their end zone on a nine-play drive which ended with Rice Hill carrying the pigskin into pay dirt on a 26-yard run.

Breds soccer record is 7-3 after two wins, loss at George Rogers Clark

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Thorobreds are busy matching up with region opponents as they prepare for another long run into the post season.

Last Thursday night in Falmouth the Breds started with district rival Pendleton County and came away with a 3-0 win.

This match was controlled by Harrison County from start to finish which, according to Coach Nick Hill, is the first time this season that the Breds have had such a grip on a battle.

“Another good performance by the entire team,” said Hill. “Christian Carey and the defense played really solid and held the Wildcats to just a handful of shots on goal.”

The match was scoreless in the first half but with about 10 minutes played in the second half, Carey sent a booming punt downfield which was misjudged by the Pendleton County defender and Devon Barton took the ball past the goal keeper for the first goal.

Only five minutes later, Grant Carr dribbled up the sideline, past the outside fullback and passed to Logan Wiley who was wide open for the second goal of the night.

Patrick Chumley was the assist man on the third goal as he intercepted a pass and took it downfield and passed to Carr right before he was tripped.

Carr blasted the round ball past the goal keeper for the 3-0 final score.

“This was a big win for us because for one, it is a district opponent,” noted Hill. “Two, because we are putting a little winning streak together at the right time before district tournament.”

The loss left Pendleton County with a 4-6 record for the season.

Monday night the Paris

Greyhounds came calling to the Athletic Complex and made a good accounting before the Thorobreds defeated them 2-1.

As well as Hill thought his team played in Falmouth he thought the reverse on Monday night.

“We just kind of went through the motions on Monday on offense doing the bare minimum,” he observed. “On defense we scrambled all night with poor communications.”

Paris scored first as after Carey deflected a ball the rest of the defense watched as the Greyhounds buried it into the back of the net with about 10 minutes to play in the half.

Two minutes later the Thorobreds took advantage of sloppy play by Paris and Carr scored to tie the match at the half.

Neither team could muster much

Fillies shutout Paris Lady Hounds 4-0 in Monday night action

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies bounced back from the heartbreaking defeat last Monday to Bourbon County to defeat Paris 4-0 in Paris Monday night.

It took only eight minutes of the game for Harrison County to score the first goal when Taylor Fry won the ball about 20 yards out and beat the Paris defenders to sink the goal in the left corner.

This gave the Fillies a lead that they would never surrender.

Seven minutes later, Amber Smith took a pass from Haley Carr and hit the back of the net for the second Harrison County goal and a 2-0 halftime lead.

The second half was nearly identical to the first as with only nine minutes gone Amelia Bolin scored off a corner pass from Fry and a tap from Hannah Thomas for a 3-0 lead.

Thomas scored the final goal when Fry again sent a corner kick in, Carr tapped it and she drove it home for the 4-0 final score.

Paris was playing a physical style, tough defense but the Fillies managed to adjust and score the four goals.

“We played well Monday night,” said Coach Kim Jenkins. “We still have some improvements we need to make but we made some positive steps.”

The Fillies’ next match is Wednesday when the host always tough Western Hills (3-3-1).

Next Monday Harrison County travels to Campbell County to face the powerhouse Lady Camels, who at this writing are 9-1-1.

Freshmen defense too much for Bourbon County

Despite losing running back Luke Slucher on the first play of the game, the Harrison County freshmen defeated Bourbon County 13-0 Monday night on Lawson Field.

Slucher, who was taken from the field via ambulance, returned before the end of the junior varsity game and appears to be ready to play next Monday when the freshmen host Montgomery County in Ingles Stadium.

The Harrison County defense was largely responsible for the win as they put on a display of physical play that left the Bourbon County players at a loss. Dalton Moore scored the first touchdown on a 20-yard run and Austin Jackson made the point after for a 7-0 lead.

The second score came later on a Tanner Wells throw to Tyler Jackson for a touchdown. Jackson’s kick was blocked for the final 13-0 verdict for the home Harrison County squad.

The junior varsity was limited to one score that was a touchdown pass from Malcolm Walker to Brian Davis who made a nice run into the end zone. Bourbon County won this game 28-6. The junior varsity will also face Montgomery County next Monday.

MIKE'S MINUTE

At the risk of receiving another unsigned critical letter by some gut-less wonder, I will once again state my opinion of the current state of "fairness" in sports.

This time the bosses of NASCAR have changed the rules around in order to keep one of the media darlings involved in the chase.

The original set up of the chase was that the top 12 drivers in the standings after the race in Richmond would be the ones that are in the chase.

Then, because of a spin out and some what was deemed unusual chatter on the radios of some of the close competitors to Jeff Gordon, Martin Truex was taken out of the chase and Gordon was put into the final group making it 13 instead of 12.

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

"unusual radio activity" was a dire plan to keep Gordon out.

The other drivers have mixed emotions about the decision with some all for keeping the "unfair acts" from preventing someone who rightly belongs out and putting someone who doesn't belong in while others wonder where they will draw the line.

Many fans believe that the select few, Junior, Gordon, and Johnson, have one set of rules and the other drivers operate under different guidelines.

It is apparent though they are

Brian France and Mike Helton, who rules NASCAR with an iron fist, determined that Michael Waltrip Racings' drivers were altering the finish so that Truex could be in the chase and that David Gilliland and Joey Logano's not coming out and saying exactly that some of the drivers feel the same way.

Publicly some are saying how can we correct every incident that looks a little off without just changing the order of finish each race.

They use a football analogy of a quarterback missing an open receiver. Did he do that on purpose? Did management tell him to miss him because of a bonus clause in his contract?

While this seems far fetched, a risk is raised each time the actual finish is altered.

It remains a question to many that even with the two separate incidents in Richmond that if it wasn't to benefit Jeff Gordon would any decisions be made to change the finish.

All I say that it is a slippery slope that you ride when it appears that a few favorites are given an advantage.

Thorobreds

From THOROBBREDS page 12

The point-after made the score 28-7 with nine minutes left in the game.

If things weren't bad enough, Stroub's first pass in the next possession was intercepted on the Mason County 34 and three plays later Hill ran for a 52-yard touchdown gallop and the point-after placed the score at 35-7.

Zack Mastin scored twice in the fourth period for the Thorobreds, once on a 22-yard pass play from Stroub and once on a 50-yard pass play but it was too little too late for Harrison County.

Will Griffith ran for a five-yard touchdown for Mason County for the final score of 41-19 as the game ended sending the Breds to a 2-2 record and leaving the Royals at 3-0 for the season.

Hill was the leading rusher for the day with 190 yards while Nelson was close behind with 154.

Stroub was the Breds' leading ground gainer with 51 yards. Mastin had 92 receiving yards while Hunter had 90 for the Breds who were 18 of 41 in the air for the game.

Tea King was the leading receiver for the game as he grabbed three passes for 143 yards and a touchdown.

The Thorobreds were again hampered by penalties as the yellow hanky hit the ground 12 times against Harrison County for a total of 110 yards.

The Breds travel to Paris Friday night to take on the 3-0 Bourbon County Colonels. John Hodge's squad has beaten Montgomery County, 48-12, Lincoln County, 55-14, and Breathitt County, 55-14, so it is clear that Harrison County has a tall order in playing the Colonels.

Ishmael named president of Ky professional women's federation

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

The Kentucky Federation of Business and Professional Women (KFBPW) elected Amanda Ishmael and several other Harrison County women to leadership positions at their annual state conference in June.

Ishmael, who has been a member of the Licking Valley BPW club the past seven years, is a sixth and seventh grade math teacher at Sharp Middle School in Pendleton County. She was encouraged by members to submit her name as a candidate for president of the organization.

Along with naming Ishmael president, the KFBPW also re-elected Martha Sullivan, CIO of Harrison Memorial Hospital, as the federation's treasurer. Sonja Olin and Karen Galde, both of Cynthiana, were named as executive assistants.

The KFBPW is an organization dedicated to the support of business and professional women throughout the state of Kentucky. The federation stands for "equity for all women in the workplace" and, through several dozen local clubs, provides educational programs, professional networking opportunities through conferences and grass roots advocacy of its legislative platforms

AMANDA ISHMAEL

Library Bookmobile will be available Sept. 27 at New Beginnings at 10:30 a.m.; Our Little Miracle, 11 a.m.; Robynwood Heights, 3-4 p.m.

Farmers Market Fall Craft Fair. The Harrison County Farmers Market will host a fall craft fair on Saturday, Sept. 28 from 9 a.m. - 7 p.m. Vendors can set up after 7:30 a.m. for a fee of $15 payable upon arrival and at which time they will be given their booth assignment. Electric is available and must bring own tent, tables, chairs and electrical cords. A local boy scout troop will provide concessions and will also help vendors unload vehicles and assist with parking. This event is also a fundraiser for the troop to gain some community hours. Contact Vickie Fryman at 859-987-1758 for more information.

Ishmael said that one of her personal goals as president is to encourage new membership in the KFBPW throughout the state. In three primary regions, Ishmael estimated that there are approximately 20 local clubs. Most are active and thriving with the largest located in northern Kentucky and Louisville.

But there is plenty of room for the federation to grow across the state, Ishmael said. Regarding the organization's primary purpose to promote equity of opportunity throughout the state, Ishmael said though inequities persist, Kentucky is among the more progressive states in leveling the playing field between male and female professionals.

But there is plenty of work ahead for the KFBPW and the organization would benefit from the insights of other business professionals that have yet to join, she said.

Ishmael is also hoping to expand upon the KFPBW Foundation's scholarship programs by encouraging more women seeking their college degrees to submit applications.

The Foundation, Ishmael said, has been very responsive over the years to the needs of traditional and non-traditional college students through annual scholarship awards that help them attain their academic and professional goals.

The deadline for the next round of scholarship applications is Oct. 31, Ishmael said. Interested students can find out if they are eligible and how to apply by visiting KFBPW website at www.bpw-ky.org.

"I am very excited about what our organization plans to do for the next year. I encourage anyone in our local area to join the Licking Valley BPW club. We sponsor several speakers on topics such as money management, job seeking, wise investments and other ways to manage income," Ishmael said.

LEGAL NOTICE MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale entered by the Harrison Circuit Court on August 1, 2013 in Civil Action No. 13-CI-00109 Styled Bank of America, N.A., Plaintiff, vs. James A. Hill, The Unknown Spouse of James A. Hill, Mary B. Hill and Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc., as nominee for Irwin Union Bank and Trust Company, its successors and assigns, Defendants, the Master Commissioner of the Harrison Circuit Court will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder at the front door of the Harrison County Courthouse, in Cynthiana, Kentucky, on Friday, September 20, 2013 at 10:00 a.m., the following described property:

Parcel No.: 106-2000-046-00-000

The following described property together with all improvements thereon and appurtenances thereunto belonging, located in the County of Harrison, State of Kentucky, described as follows, to-wit:

Being all of Lot No. 11, Block "A", Unit 1, of the Cedar Brook Subdivision, to the City of Cynthiana, Harrison County, Kentucky, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, Page 103, in the Harrison County Clerk's Office, to which reference is made for a more particular description of the property; the improvements thereon being known and designated as Route 4, Box 128, Elm Court;

Being the same property conveyed to James A. Hill and Mary B. Hill, husband and wife, by virtue of a deed from Melissa Gay Crawley, a single person, dated May 15, 1998, filed May 19, 1998, recorded in Deed Book 223, Page 523, County Clerk's Office, Harrison County, Kentucky.

Subject to all restrictions, conditions and covenants and to all legal highways and easements.

Commonly known as: Daisy Ct 29, Cynthiana, KY 41031

The property is being sold to produce a sum sufficient to satisfy the judgments and liens as follows: (a) The costs of this action, including the Master Commissioner's fee, appraiser's fee and advertising costs; and (b) Judgment for the Plaintiff, Bank of America, N.A. in the amount of $49,903.54 plus interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from October 1, 2012 until paid, plus any additional costs expended by Plaintiff to protect or preserve the property until sale date. (c) Real Estate taxes, plus interest and penalties, if any, for taxes assessed for the year 2012 and previous years. (d) Plaintiff's Court costs and attorney fees.

The property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions: (1) The property shall be sold free and clear of all liens and claims of the parties to this action; (2) The purchaser shall be required to pay the sum of 10% of the purchase price in cash, certified funds or by other immediately verifiable collectable medium of exchange acceptable to the Commissioner, on the day of sale to apply on the purchase price; (3) The balance of the purchase price shall be due and payable within thirty (30) days after the day of sale; (4) The purchaser shall be required to execute a bond with good and sufficient surety thereon as approved by the Commissioner to secure the unpaid portion of the purchase price, the bond to bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the day of sale until paid, the bond to have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain a lien on the property as additional security until the purchase price is paid in full; (5) In the event that the Plaintiff is the successful purchaser, it shall be entitled to a credit on its judgment against the purchase price and shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master Commissioner, and any real estate taxes payable pursuant to this order, and in that event, no bond shall be required; (6) The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or any part of the purchase price or paying the bond before maturity by paying the balance of the principal together with all accrued interest thereon until the date of payment; (7) The purchaser shall obtain possession of the property upon confirmation of the sale by the Court and payment of the purchase price in full; (8) All ad valorem taxes on the property for calendar year 2013 and all subsequent years shall be assumed and paid by the purchaser. All real property taxes due and owing to Harrison County or the City of Cynthiana for 2012 and prior years will be paid from the proceeds of sale. (9) The property shall be sold subject to any assessment for public improvements levied against the property and subject to all rules and regulations enforced by the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning and Zoning Commission, all applicable health and safety regulations, all restrictions and easements thereon appearing of record in the Harrison County Court Clerk's Office, governmental laws and regulations affecting the property, and shall be subject to any unrecorded easements, discrepancies or conflicts in boundary lines, shortage in area and encroachments, if any there be, which an accurate and complete survey or an inspection of the property would disclose; (10) The purchaser shall bear the risk of loss on the improvements on the property and the risk of loss shall pass to the purchaser as of the day and time of sale; (11) The property shall be sold with any improvements thereon "as is"; and (12) The property shall be sold subject to such right of redemption as may exist in favor of the United States of America pursuant to 28 USC Section 2410, and the right of redemption of the Defendants.

All bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.
